Friday, August 31st, 2018

12pm

Jewels by Grace

Speaker: Grace Lavarro

Booth #: 1539

Topic: Vintage and Antique Engagement Ring Selection: How to choose and purchase "The One"

Synopsis:

Shopping for vintage and antique engagement rings is a daunting task - it's a journal that is deeply personal, challenging, and daunting at best. I will speak about how to choose the perfect ring for you (or your intended), how to navigate all the choices out there, and how to choose one that is deeply personal, unique, and reflects the wearer's personality, character, and uniqueness.

1pm

Antique Cane World

Speaker: Gary Durow

Booth #: 2109A

Topic: Raising Cane

Synopsis:

In America, there were 1,500 patents for gadget canes by 1915. Guns, swords, surgical instruments, fishing poles and microscopes were all built into a cane. Canes weren't made to hold people up, they wore them, they made a statement of who they were. Hear fascinating stories about these canes and those who used them.

2pm

Orientations Gallery

Speaker: Susan Tosk

Booth #: 1923

Topic: Susan Tosk and David Cole of Orientations Gallery will discuss Japanese artworks that were featured at the great World's Fairs and International Expositions from the 1870's through the 1920's.

Synopsis:

Japan dazzled the world at the great World's Fairs and International Expositions from the 1870's through the 1920's. Showcased will be their distinctive and sophisticated cloisonné enamels, inlaid metalwork, gold lacquer, textiles, ceramics, carvings and much more. We plan to have examples of all of these at the show. We will be glad to share our experience with the attendees with in-depth explanations of the techniques of creation, thematic imagery, and history. Featured in particular will be textiles, as Gallery Director Susan Tosk is a contributing author to the recent scholarly publication "Re-Envisioning Japan: Meiji Fine Art Textiles".

3pm

Drucker Antiques

Speaker: Bill Drucker

Booth #: 1214

Topic: Discover the Women Designers of the Georg Jensen Silver-smithy

12pm

Barometer Fair

Speaker: John Forster

Booth #: 1118

Topic: Barometers, technological masterpieces of the 18th century, and today.

Synopsis:

There are not that many antiques that were wonders of the scientific world 200-250 years ago, and are still functioning today, using the exact same science. Many clocks have been modified (ie, have had their mechanisms removed, and replaced by a quartz movement), although paintings, silver and furniture, while frequently antique and original, do not display any scientific function. A barometer that measures the height of a mercury column, works in an air-conditioned home, and predicts the weather, is still a useful and beautiful addition to every home decor today.

1pm

OCN Ancient Jewelry, Coins & Maps

Speaker: Suraj Joshi

Booth #: 1411

Topic: Chronology of Roman Emperors

Synopsis:

The focus to show how we come about the criteria and placement of Roman emperors in our understanding and organization of numismatic collections. How I have chosen the inclusion and exclusion of certain figures from our imperial list. Discussing in many instances how complex the question of who is or is not an emperor as the empire fractured and evolved through the centuries.

2pm

Carole Pinto Fine Arts

Speaker: Carole Pinto

Booth #: 1528

Topic: Unearthing Artistic Treasures in France: from Modernism to Contemporary Art

Synopsis:

Paris was the artistic and cultural capital of the world at the turn of the XIXth century, attracting artists from all over the world who came to study at the rigorous academies and to exhibit their work at the prestigious art salons. Whether escaping political persecution or seeking artistic inspiration, these painters would gather at Gertrude Stein's apartment and exchange artistic and philosophical ideas. This resulted in a rich crosscurrent of styles and creativity, and gave birth to a staggering wealth of artistic output which added great novelty to traditional French art. Come and explore this fascination period, which gave birth to the important Modern Art movements of the XXth century.

3pm

Jason McLeod Jewelry

Speaker: Jason McLeod

Booth #: 1860

Topic: Punk Rock, Time Travel, Jewelry!

Synopsis:

Jason McLeod talks about his experience and perspectives as a jewelry designer and goldsmith, immediately followed by a chance to ask questions and meet him. He'll offer insights about what has contributed to his professional life, including years as a punk and rock & roll musician, and how time travel and quantum physics influence his design and approach to making jewelry and art. Please join us – Jason looks forward to meeting you!

12pm

Lisa Kramer Vintage

Speaker: Lisa Kramer

Booth #: 2024

Topic: Identifying Georgian Jewelry: Genuine, Fake, and Revivals

Synopsis:

Georgian Jewelry is phenomenally popular right now and the market is currently flooded with fakes. Being able to tell the difference between genuine and fake is often a matter of the details of design and construction. This will be a hands-on presentation showing you the most commonly-used construction techniques of Georgian jewelry compared to that of later Georgian revival pieces. You will also get to see contemporary copies and come away with resources that will help you learn more in the future.

1pm

Antique Cupboard

Speaker: Angela Dreis

Booth #: 1933

Topic: The man who hit the mother lode – John Mackay

Synopsis:

We recently acquired a set of silver Tiffany custom made for John Mackay, the man who discovered the Comstock Lode. In 20 years, the mine yielded the equivalent of $565 Billion in today's dollars. It took Tiffany

1 million-man hours to make the 1200+ piece set in 1877 and 1878. It was then sent to the Paris Exposition where it won the "Grand Prix".

2pm

Battledor Ltd.

Speaker: Dennis M David & Justin Schiller

Booth #: 1302

Topic: Dutch Decorative Arts 1880–1940 From Art Nouveau to Art Deco and Modernism

Synopsis:

An innovative and important period in fine and decorative arts, the international Art Nouveau movement changed the perception of decoration and the landscape of Art in general, becoming more stylized and fluid – open for innovation, experimentation and interpretation. Influencing the applied arts, the new style in overall production ushered in other movements from the De Stijl, Art Deco and various other schools of Modernism.

A rich trove of examples from important manufacturers such as Rozenburg, Delft, and South Holland, have come out of this period in The Netherlands, and we have some very good pieces to showcase, from original artwork, books, prints, statuary, ceramics and porcelain. A Collecting passion that started in 1986, our appreciation of the creativeness during this period has not waned.

3pm

Patricia Funt Antiques

Speaker: Patricia Funt

Booth #: 1507

Topic: The quality and elegance of utilitarian items in years past

Synopsis:

Patricia Funt will talk about the way even utilitarian items in the past were made beautifully and were made to last. She will show a number of small antique items whose present day counterparts are sadly most often mass-produced or disposable. Starting with a stunning 18k gold purse compact with lipstick from the 1930's and going way back in time to a Georgian silver seal for closing those letters with style.
